The Climate Voices network brings non-partisan conversations about the research findings of the majority of climate scientists to citizens across the United States and Puerto Rico. Scientists and other experts meet with neighbors and community organizations to initiate discussions about the local effects of a changing climate and possible ways to address impacts.

Actions you can take with Climate Voices:

- Join as a scientist speaker
- Arrange a group discussion

Strenuously non-political. The goal is to engage people through shared values and personal connections. Scientists talk personally about climate change, telling why they care about it and what it means to them, and their concerns for the future we're leaving our children.

Actions you can take with More Than Scientists:

- Make a video
- Watch a video (every view counts!)
- Share a video
- Find more resources and other groups
