

Alaska Sea Grant State Fellowship Program

The Alaska Sea Grant State Fellowship Program strengthens the workforce dedicated to healthy fisheries and coastal environments by encouraging graduate students to launch careers in Alaska.

Photo by UAF Marketing and Communications. An iceberg is frozen in the ice near Juneau's Mendenhall Glacier.

The state fellowship program provides a unique professional opportunity for graduate students interested in Alaska's marine resources and policy decision-making. The 12-month paid fellowship offers on-the-job experience to highly motivated students who are matched with host state or federal agencies in Alaska. Graduate students close to completing a degree, or with a recently earned degree, are eligible. The deadline to apply to Alaska Sea Grant for this fellowship is in February.

For more information, and how to apply, visit alaskaseagrant.org/fellowships